Founder & Chief Executive Officer Buddi Bandz

Arthur Alexiou is both Founder and CEO of Buddi Bandz.

Arthur brings more than 20 years of security management and services experience to Buddi Bandz, with significant exposure to both domestic and Fortune 500 companies.

Prior to founding Buddi Bandz, Arthur founded leading security services provider National Security Centre (NSC) where he most recently served as its Managing Director responsible for overseeing all aspects of business including product innovation, business growth and operations, and end-to-end management of NSC's service and support activities in all market segments.

Today, Arthur continues to make significant strides within the security industry both as a business leader and innovator of security related products for the world market.

Beginning his career as a technology integrator for multimedia and communications devices, Arthur soon gained extensive exposure to the security industry and quickly forged industry partnerships to bring solutions to the market that converge both the communications and security industries.

Arthur is a respected security industry evangelist and former student of the University of Sydney with a focus on Electronic Engineering.
